" Statement .- In the month of July, Samuel Arch-No 132 Tremont street, next door to the Savings tank, or at the residence of the invalid. Orders for Leeches left at her Room, or at Mr Geyer's Apothecary Store, corner of Hanover and Salem streets, will meet with immediate attention.

The Reference to Drs. Jackson, Hayward, Ware, Warren, Hale, Reynolds, Bigelow, Channing and Jeffries.

The public papers of the day praised Reed very warmly for his skill and perseverance in following up, and securing the adroit young rogue. George W. Phillips securing the adroit young rogue. George W. Phillips and George T. Bigelow, Esquires, were counsel for Archer, and he described to them the property that Reed had taken from him, after the arrest, viz : clothes, a diamond pin, and a diamond ring, and apwards of $70 in money. He no doubt had that sum of money, as but a short time before he picked a gentleman's pocket of more than that sum. This property A CARD TO THE LADIES .- Young ladies who are de- remained, according to law, in Reed's possession, un til the case was disposed of in the Municipal Court. they can see specimens of improvement, executed in a short time, by young Ladies in this city, which he is confident will induce others to desire the same instruction.

Keed told the counsel that he would keep the articles all safe, but said that the pin was of no value, and that the money amounted to only about fifty dollars.— Reed told the counsel that he would keep the articles Archer was convicted on the 11th of August, and he NCORRUPTIBLE PORCELAIN TEETH. gave his counsel an order on Reed for his property, to be upon it that he took both the pin and the ring from Archer. The pin differed so entirely from the diamond described by Archer, that the Counsel at once suspected Reed of an attempt to rob the very pickpocket he had received so much credit for capturing. -They communicated their suspicions to the Wardon of the State Prison, who without hinting the object of his OTICE.—The subscriber would inform his friends and the public, that he has taken store No 251 Washington street, where may be found a large assortment of Fancy by Reed, which was then shown to Archer who enquiry induced Archer to describe his pin minutelypromptly said it was not his. There was now but little room to doubt that Reed had played the cheat .--Upon inquiry at J. Bigelow's jewelry store, it was ascertained that Josiah Gooding had spoken of buying such a pin of a constable. Mr. Gooding was then called upon and he stated that he had bought such a pin of Reed for $25,00-it was produced, and corresponded in every particular with the description given by Archer and when it was carried over to him, claimed it as his.

Possesse I of these facts the counsel sent for Mr. and twenty barrels of the best Thomastown giving him the reasons for them; he showed some agiving him the reasons for them; he showed some agitation, but affirmed that the pin he gave them was the very one he took from Archer; they then presented the diamond pin and told him that he was deceiving them, in a proposer manner, two hundred and ten squares, of one hundred square square square square square square square square square squares, of one hundred square square square square square squares, of one hundred square squares, of one hundred square squares, of one hundred squares, of one hund it. He still denied the fact, said that he did sell that diamond pin to Mr Gooding, but that he had it a year ago of a man in Providence for debt and had worn it petent. Presuming on this as his protection Reed had probably first conceived the design of embezzling the property and now persisted in his denial. He told the gentlemen that his character would bear investigation, that he was always very particular in these matters, gally proved, as Archer, being a convict, could not testify in court, the counsel still determined to astertain if legal testimony could not be procured. Archer described the store in New York, where he purchased itthe salesman-the price-the time-conversation-and

With this statement in writing, taken from his lips, Mr John Wilson, constable, went to New York, taking the pin with him. He found the store with all ease, by Archer's directions; the pin was identified at the store, and it still had the private shop mark unerased, and the the convict, and at the time specified by him. The other particulars of Archer's statement were found to be equally true. On Mr Wilson's return from New Soussion Caps, in large or small lots, cheaper than can be bought or imported, for sale by SAMU EL HATCH, 69 Den. Simmons, who was decidedly of opinion that Mr Reed should be immediately arrested and subjected to a rigid examination; Reed was arrested and held to bail. After the case came before the Grand Jury, the salesman, who was described by Archer as the person who deliv-Boston, identified the pin, and remembered the circumstances attending the sale. He went over to the State Prison, where he and Archer mutually recognised each other.

Reed was indicted by the Grand Jury, and not appearing, was defaulted. To show how far back he probably meditated this theft, it is only necessary to say, that in the advertisement in the Transcript a day or two after Archer's arrest, of the property which had been found upon him, the diamond pin was omitted; no breast-pin was mentioned; the ring had been seen by Read; but the pin being in the folds of his shirt bosom, was not seen, as Reed supposed, by any body but himself. As to the money, it could not be proved there were $70, and Archer was content to let it be $56. the amount given by Reed. In this case, there was no doubt that Archer was guilty, and that Reed told substantially the truth; but it cannot fail to suggest itself to every one that a dishonest police officer has a very strong motive to procure the conviction of a prisoner. and it would not be unreasonable to suppose that this powerful stimulus may have operated in other cases, on such a man as John Reed, to the serious prejudice and gave

DEDHAM CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

Wednesday was a great day with our fellow-citizens of Dedham-it was one of general rejoicing by all ages and exes. There were no less than three parties of jubilants the gentlemen in the Pavilion, erected in a field adjoining the meeting house ; the ladies in the Court House, and the children in the School House.

At half past 10 o'clock, the Procession of citizens was formed on Western Avenue, and then proceeded to the front of Alden's Hotel, where it was joined by the invited guests, among whom were his Excellency Gov. Everett, and Colonels R. C. Winthrop and Andrews, his Aids; President Quincy; Hon. Judge Davis, of the District Court; Hon. Alexander H. Everett; Adjutant General Dearborn; the Hon. William Jackson, and the Hon. Franklin Dexter. The Procession was also joined by a juvenile column, consisting of about 300 boys and 400 girls-accompanied by the Brass Band, and escorted by the Dedham Light Infantry, under the command of Capt. Pedrick. The Procession then moved slowly through the principal atreets, till it reached an evergreen arch, in the front of the Unitarian Meeting House, where it halted. It then passed through two lines of fire-engines, into the Meeting House, where an interesting and animated historical Address was delivered by SAMUEL F. HAVEN, Esq., now of Lowell, but the son of the Hon. Judge HAVEN, of Dedham. It appeared by the records, cited by Mr Haven, that, in the year 1636, David Everett, the ancestor of the Messrs. Everett present, was one of the nineteen emigrant Puritans, who obtained the grant, and settled the town of

In the course of the exercises within the Meeting House, the following original hymn, by Rev. Mr PIER-PONT, was sung by the choir, among whom were some members of the Tremont chorus :---

HYMN.

Not now, O God, beneath the trees That shade this plain, at night's cold noon. Do Indian war-songs load the breeze, Or wolves sit howling to the moon

The foes, the fears our father's felt Have, with our fathers, passed away; And where in their dark hours, they knelt, We come to praise thee and to pray. We praise thee that thou plantedst them,

And mad'st thy heavens drop down their dew. We pray that shooting from their stem, We long may flourish where it grew. And, Father, leave us not alone : Thou hast been, and still art our trust : --Be thou our fortress, till our own

Shall mingle with our fathers' dust. After the Address, the procession of citizens, to the number of seven hundred, repaired to the Pavilion, where they sat down to an excellent dinner, provided by Capt. sometimes. There was still no legal evidence against Alden. The Hon. James Richardson presided at the table. Reed, as Archer was a convict and consequently incom- The carniverous portion of the pavilion proceedings being discussed with no little display of avidity, the convival and social was commenced, in due course, by the President of the Day, who exhibited a few relics of the first settlers of Dedham. The first curiosity, was said to be and that it was their duty to proceed against him if thy an ox-saddle-oxen or cows in those days being not unfrebelieved him guilty. If the shape of the his guilt though it was doubtful whether it could be le- saddle may be supposed to convey any idea of the comfort of riding on it, then was there some need, and much meaning in the ancient half-prayer and half-wish farewell of "A pleasant journey to you." The horse that died the very day he learnt to live on brick-bats, had not a backbone of superior sharpness. A very long musket was then exhibited, as being one brought over by the settlers, and used in the first garrison-house erected, a part of which is now standing in Dedham.

To prove, as he remarked, that the settlers of Dedham " had not been robbers and thieves in their transactions with the Indians," the President unfolded an original deed of the purchase of the land on which they settled, and then gave the following sentiment :--"The Day-in all its hallowed associations and congenial joys:-May we prove true and faithful to our ancestors, to our institutions, and to posterity.' After referring to the historical incident handed down, that the Royal Governor Andros had been seized in the ered him the pin in the store at New York, came to streets of Boston, by a Dedham man, the President gave-"The Governor of Massachusetts-A noble tree sprung from a Dedhain root-though the growth of our own soil, its branches overshadow the Commonwealth?"

Governor Everett responded in a brief, but eloquent speech, in which he chiefly adverted to the reflection often made by foreigners "that the institutions of America were of a mushroom growth." "They are the growth," said he, "of two hundred years-the moral elements of our character from which our institutions naturally sprang, were planted by our fathers. It is true, that the striking by persons present at the arrest, and had been worn political organization of our institutions—as to form and exterior-are recent, but the character of the people which give that organization strength is coeval with their history, The life, the marrow, the substance of our political existence is two hundred years old."

In reply to a toast in honor of the University at Cambridge, ending-" May it always be guided by as unerring a hand as now holds the reins," President Quincy made a few remarks, commenting on a passage in history, saying that the ancient settlers "swarmed" into Dedham,

"The descendants of the first settlers of Dedham-ac tive, industrious, and enterprising, as their ancestors; and so prosperous that they have no desire and no temptation

Another toast having been announced, referring to the Everett family, the Hon ALEXANDER H. EVERETT briefly replied, and, after some humorous remarks upon the modern whig term of "collar-men," gave

" The town of Dedham-may its future days be as dis- clusive. tingoi-hed by its prosperity, as its early days were by the energy and enterprise of its founders."

The memory of Governor Winthrop being given, Cor. Winthrop made a very handsome speech, in which he eloquently and beautifully cologised the character of Gov. Winthrop's early political associate and friend, Sir Henry Vane. He spoke of Sir Henry, as being the first of the English liberals of that day, who suggested in his writings the principles and general form of the American Constitutions. His allusions to many circumstances in "Sir Harry's" life were very happy, and he concluded his remarks with a sentiment to his memory.

His Honur Judge Davis, as President of the Historical Society, in which capacity he had been referred to in a toast by the President, spoke somewhat at length, but was entirely inaudible at the distance at which we sat. This was the case, indeed, with most of the speeches, which, by the way, had the rare excellence of being uncommonly brief and to the point. In this particular, they were generally most happy departures from the everlasting prosing so prevalent at public festivals. Every thing went off light and spiritedly-speeches, toasts, songs, and music, and every body appeared delighted.

About 5 o'clock the Governor and suite withdrew, and regained to the Court House, where the ladies were enjoying a truly elegant arrangement of their own. They were quite as happy, and a little more lively, than the gentlemen of the Pavilion.

In the evening there was a display of fireworks, and the multitude around were also highly delighted with the execution of the Brass Band.

We ought to acknowledge the courtesy of the Chief Marshal, General Guild, in ordering, and Capt. Alden for making arrangements for our accommodation after our arrival; but, as it is always desirable, and often necessary, to have reporters at public festivals, a table for their accommodation should always be put up in front of the speakers, and as near them as possible. It is utterly imp ssible to do justice to their language or sentiments otherwise. On this occasion being necessarily crowded back into immediate contact with the carvas covering of the Pavilion, ve could hear the comments and jests of the " outs" much more distinctly than the remarks of the "ins." The inconvenience, however, was unavoidable. One unsanctified varlet amused himself by sticking a pin brough the canvas into our shoulder.

Celebration of the Centennial Anniversary at Norfolk, Va .- On the fifteenth of September the citizens assembled to celebrate the Centennial Anniversary of the Charter of Norfolk, in the Court House, under the superintendence of Capt. John Capron, the Chief Marshal of the day. As soon as the line was formed, the Committee of Arrangements, presented the new Banner of the Borough to the citizens, which was painted in an elegant man- | body to Florida. ner by Mr John Crawley. On the banner is a fine sketch of the character and prospects of the Borough. On the right side of the picture is seen Virginia, dressed as in ancient time, extending her right arm to Norfolk, who is equipped as becomes a daughter of the sea, rising to receive it, while Phenix is seen rising above both mother and daughter. The banner was borne by Thomas Newton, an elderly and distinguished citizen. When they had proceeded into church, they were addressed by William Maxwell, the orator of the day, in an eloquent and patriotic discourse. After the services were over, the citizens were invited to a cold col ation, by the Norfolk L. A. Blues. They were likewise hospitably entertained by the Chief Marshal of the day. After dinner there was an aquatic excursion, and every thing went on happily. The celebration was concluded by a brilliant display of rockets.

Woburn, Sept. 21, 1836. Dear Sir-Mr PARMENTER Was UNANIMOUSLY nominated for Congress at the Convention held this morning at Woburn, for District No. 4.

The County Convention held at the same place was more fully attended than any democratic Convention held in Middlesex County for the last ten years; 29 towns were represented, and 195 delegates were present.

Leonard M. Parker, of Shirley, William Livingston, of Lowell, Reuben Bacon, of Bedford, Stephen Pope, of Marlborough, and Francis Bowman, of Cambridge, were unanimously nominated for Senators for Middlesex. There was no difference of opinion whatever manifested in the Convention with regard to the nominations, or doubts entertained of the success of our ticket.

From all parts of the county the news is most cheering; our friends are thoroughly awake, and though the opposition are making almost incredible exertions in organizing and drilling their squadrons, we anticipate a majority even greater than was given our Senatorial ticket last year.

Bowen Buckman, Esq., of Woburn, Thomas P. Goodhue, of Lowell, Abijah Goodrich, of Charlestown, George Robbins, of Watertown, Henry Woods, of Groton, Ira Mitchell, of Framingham, and Juel Viles, of Lexington, were elected County Committee.

The feds made a great preparation for the reception of HARRISON at Washington the other day, but he didn't come. It is not the last time that they will be disappointed in his arrival at Washington.

Geo. M. Dallas, of Philadelphia, has declined being a candidate for Congress from the district now represented by Judge Sutherland.

NDIGESTION, JAUNDICE AND BILIOUS COMPLAINTS. ANDERSON'S VEGETABLE ELIXIR, for Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Jaundice and Bilious Complaints, weakness of the Stomach and Bowels, and consequent loss of appetite ; nervous complaints, headach, sour stomach, flatu; lence and habitual costiveness.

This medicine is composed entirely of vegetable substances is perfectly safe in its operation, and may be given to children or persons of the most delicate habit, without the least risk of

The uniform success which has attended the use of it where inconvenience.

The uniform success which has attended the use of it where it has been extensively used, in Boston and various other parts of the United States, and in the West Indices, attested by disin terested and highly respectable persons, affords, next to a trial of the medicine itself, the best commentary upon its virtues and the best recommendation which can be offered to those who are unacquainted with it.

Extract of a letter received from a gentleman in Boston, who had suffered severely from indigestion for three years. 'During this time, I suffered very much from mental depression, constant pain in the head and breast, and side, sharp shooting pain-over almost the whole system—the food that I ate seemed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain as tended with a strong degree of heat. At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the bed for two or three days. During one of these most severe attacks I was induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetable Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours completely restores me. It has had with me a very wonderful effect, in strengthening the stomach and invigorating the whole system, and judging by my own case, I consider it in all diseases connected with the digestive organs, to be a very valuable medicine.

It has been found singularly efficacious in cases of the most obsumate headache.

It has been found singularly efficacious in cases of the most
